President
DAHLIN Architecture | Planning | Interiors

Nancy Keenan has led expert design teams in the development of architectural and planning solutions across three decades and multiple continents. The president of DAHLIN Architecture | Planning | Interiors, Nancy is passionate about finding thoughtful, creative ways to infuse the soul of design and livability into residential projects while also addressing the realities of elusive housing attainability and a challenging entitlement environment.

With an empathetic and collaborative leadership style, Nancy steers the growth strategy — including design adaptation and innovation, technology, and sustainability — of the 150+ person professional global architecture and planning firm. She also oversees operations, finance, production, marketing, and business development.

Dedicated to collaborating with the development community to implement innovative housing solutions, DAHLIN is widely recognized for its expert, sustainable design of site-specific housing types as well as its diverse urban and suburban development track record. The firm's numerous TOD, urban redevelopment and affordable housing projects demonstrate a steadfast commitment to prioritizing sustainable land uses and building designs. Through proven research and award-winning home design, Nancy and her firm are positioned to respond quickly and creatively to the challenge of reinventing how people live in their home.

Holding a Bachelor of Arts in Architecture from Arizona State University, Nancy is a member of the American Institute of Architects (AIA), Building Industry Association (BIA) and the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB). As a licensed architect she also serves as Chairperson of the Board for HomeAid's Northern California Chapter.
